

Pack a “Curiosity Kit”

Want to keep your little explorer engaged while traveling? Create a Montessori-inspired Curiosity Kit! This small travel pack turns downtime into discovery time — perfect for road trips, flights, or even waiting at restaurants.

Here's what to include:

-  Small notebook or sketchpad - for drawing what they see or jotting down discoveries.
-  Crayons or colored pencils - encourage creativity and expression.
-  Magnifying glass - for up-close nature exploration, from leaves to shells.
-  Mini map or postcard collection - let them track where they've been or where they're headed.
-  A few open-ended toys - like small blocks, figurines, or a puzzle for quiet play.
-  Zip bag for nature treasures - to collect pebbles, leaves, or other interesting finds along the way.
-  Kid-friendly camera (optional) - to capture their favorite travel moments from their own perspective.

This simple kit encourages curiosity, focus, and independence — all core Montessori values. Plus, it helps transform long travel hours into meaningful, hands-on learning moments!
